

EXTRAORDINARY
MERIDIANS - 8
CONFLUENT
POINTS

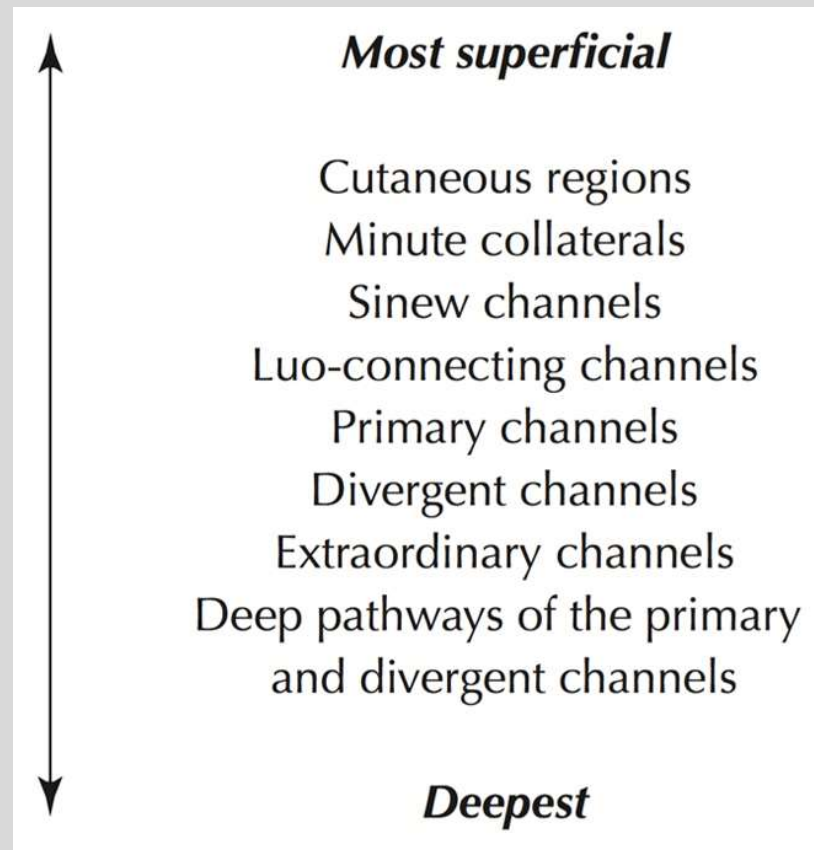

Knowledge check:

What do you know about the Extraordinary Meridians?

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

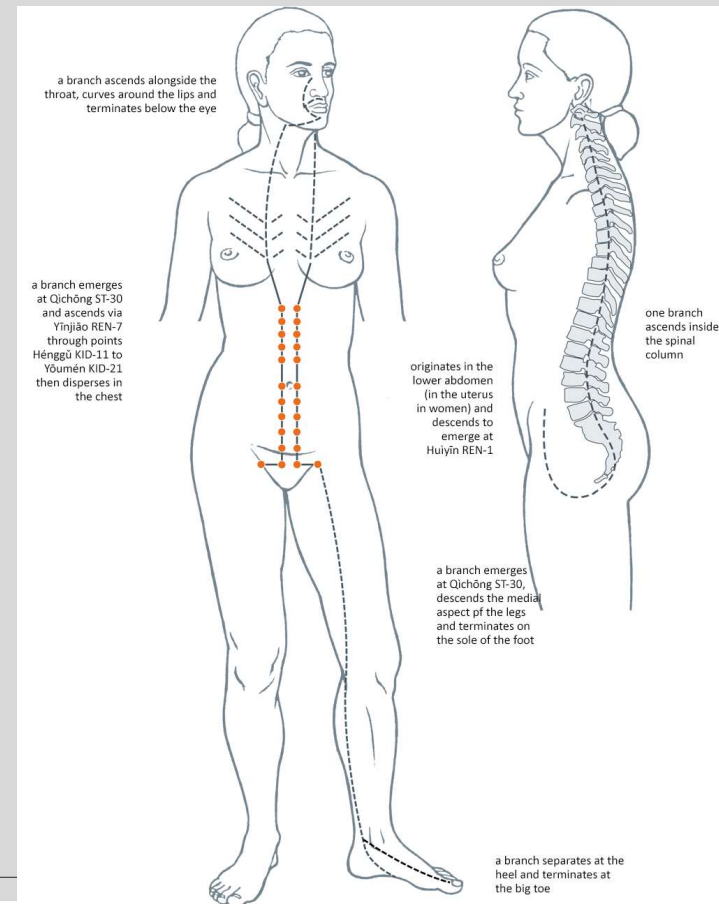

- The extraordinary vessels act as reservoirs
- The extraordinary vessels link the twelve primary channels
 - Besides the ren and du meridians, the 6 other extraordinary meridians do not have points of their own. They share points from the other 14 major meridians
- The extraordinary vessels protect the body
 - Ren, Du and Chong circulate defensive qi over the chest, abdomen and back to protect from External invasion. Has a relationship between constitutional vigor and defense against disease.

Extraordinary Meridians and depth of channels

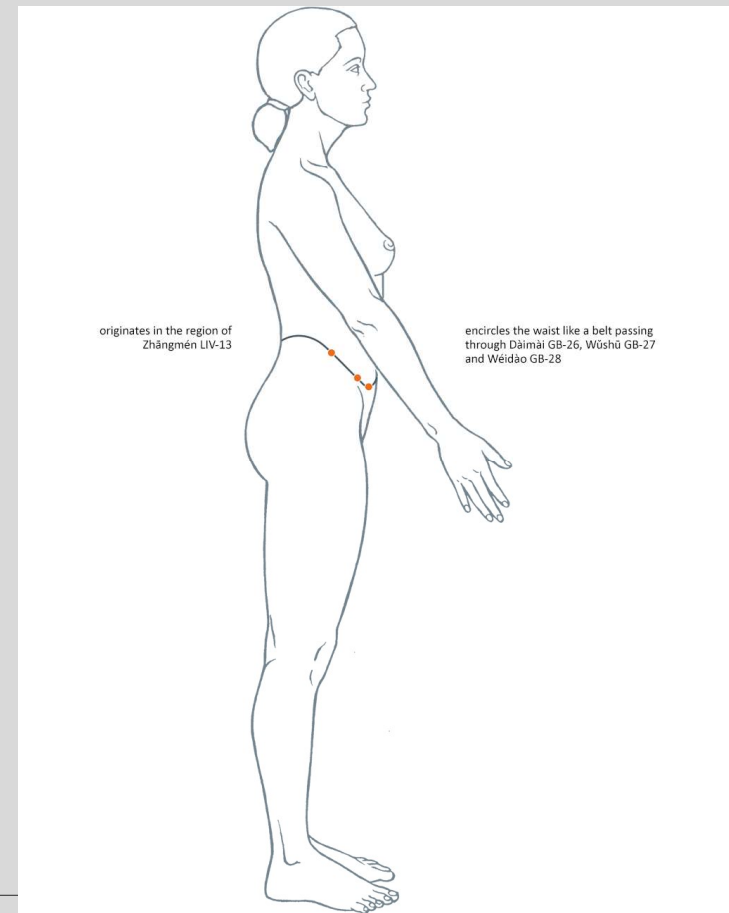

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

- CHONG/Penetrating vessel
 - links the Stomach and Kidney channels as well as strengthening the link between the Conception and Governing vessels (like both vessels, it originates in the pelvic cavity and ascends the front of the body as well as the spine).
 - known as the 'sea of blood' or the 'sea of the twelve primary channels'.
 - R1, R7, ST 30, KID11-21

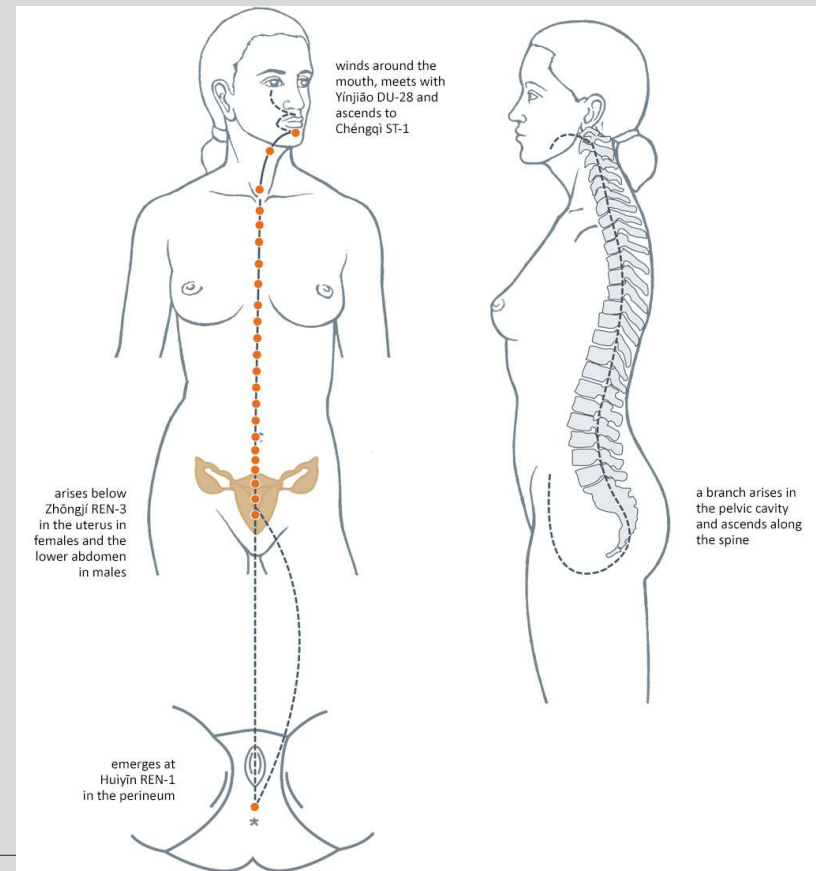

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

- DAI/Girdling vessel
 - encircles the body at the waist, binding the vertical paths of the twelve primary channels in general and the Penetrating and Conception vessels and the Kidney, Liver and Spleen channels in particular.
 - GB26, 27, 28

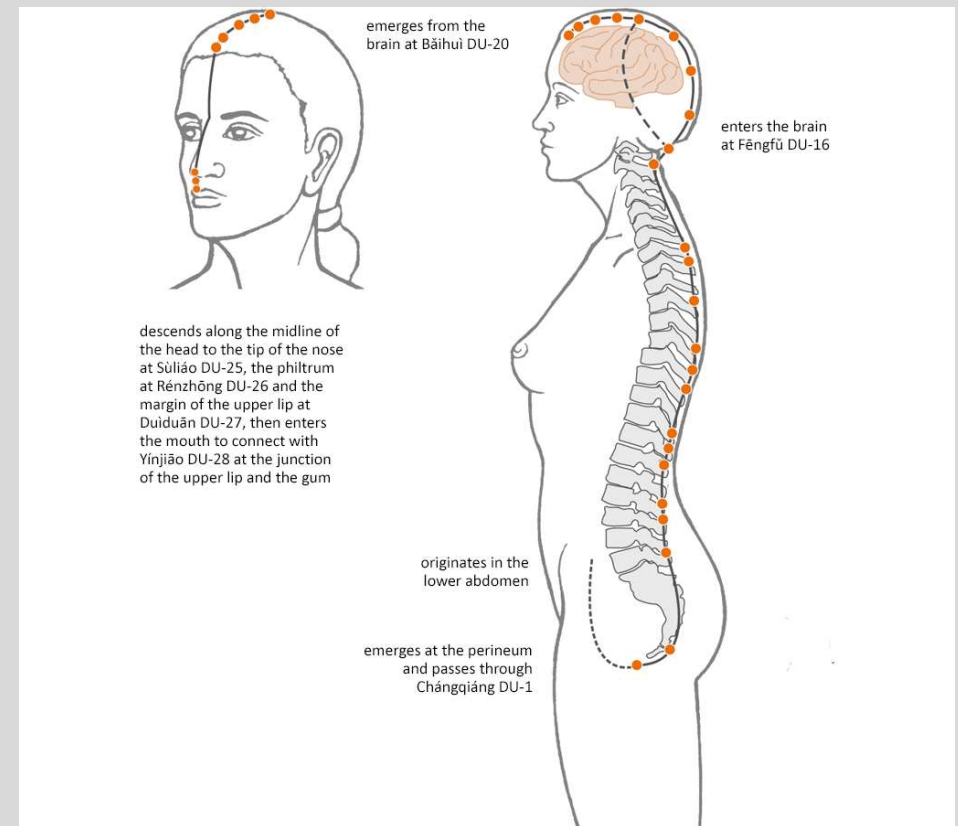

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

- REN/Conception vessel
 - links all the yin channels
 - known as the 'sea of the yin channels
 - helps regulate the qi of all the yin channels.

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

- DU/Governing vessel
 - links all the yang channels at Dàzhuī DU-14
 - known as the 'sea of the yang channels'
 - helps regulate the qi of all the yang channels.

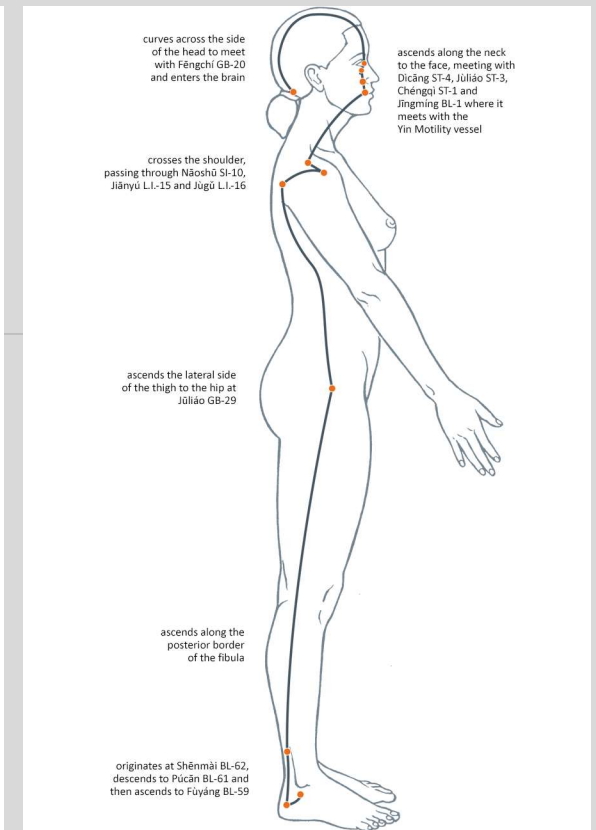

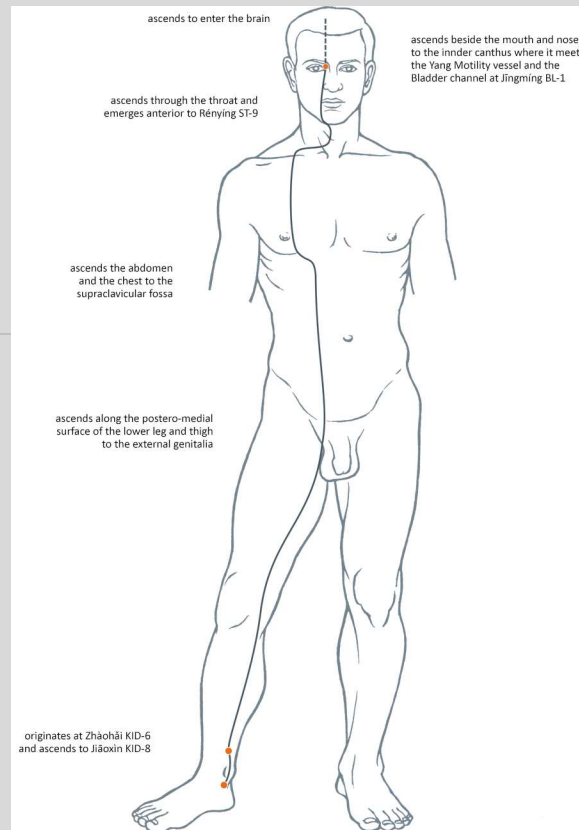

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

○ Yin Qiao/Motility vessel

- connects the Kidney and Bladder channels and is said to dominate quietness.
- K6, K8, UB 1

○ Yang Qiao/Motility vessel

- connects the Bladder, Gall Bladder, Small Intestine, Large Intestine and Stomach channels and is said to dominate activity.
- UB62, 61, 59, GB29, SI 10, LI15, 16, ST 4, 3, 1, UB1, GB20

Extraordinary Meridians - Function

○ Yin Wei/Linking vessel

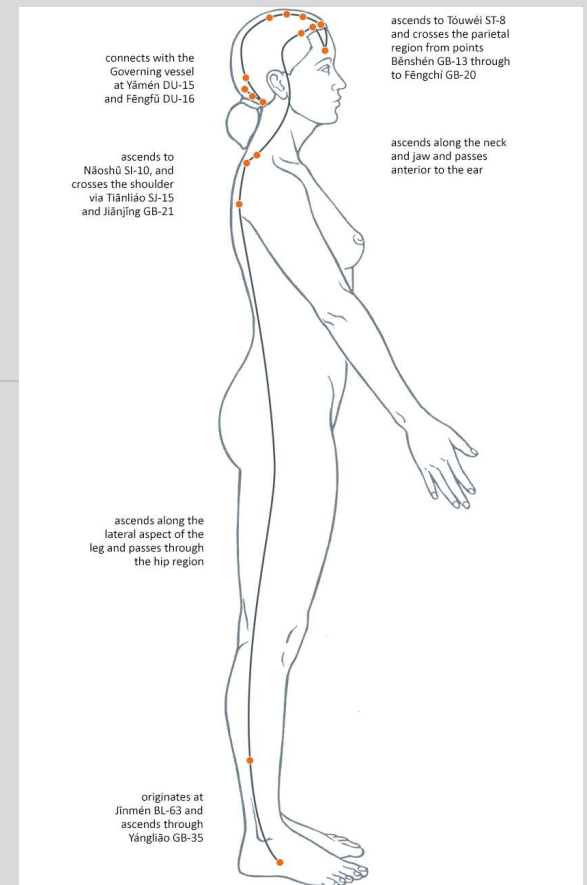

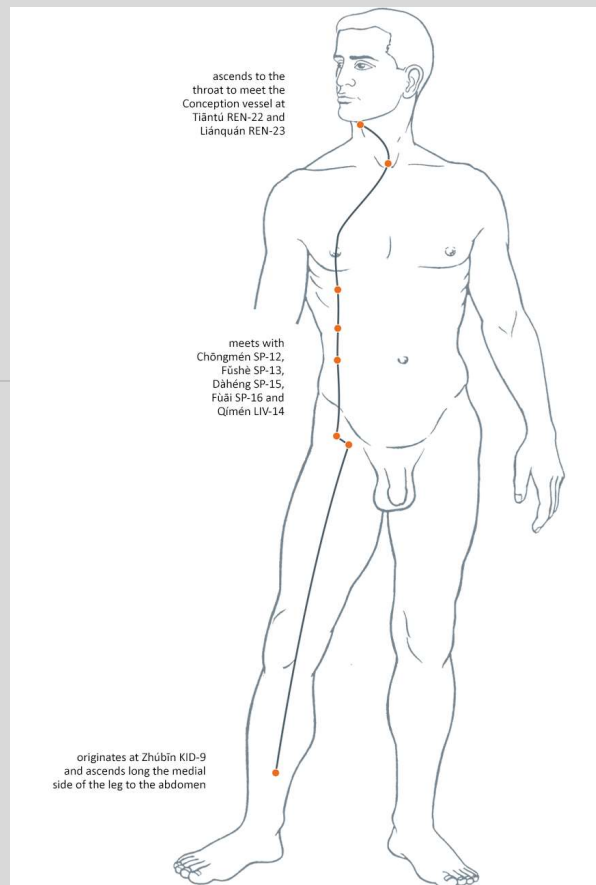

- connects the Kidney, Spleen and Liver channels and the Conception vessel and is said to dominate the interior of the whole body.

○ K9, SP12-16, LIV14, R22, 23

○ Yang Wei/Linking vessel

- connects the Bladder, Gall Bladder, Sanjiao, Small Intestine and Stomach channels and the Governing vessel, and is said to dominate the exterior of the whole body.

○ UB63, GB35, SI10, SJ15, GB21, ST 8, GB13-20, DU16, 15

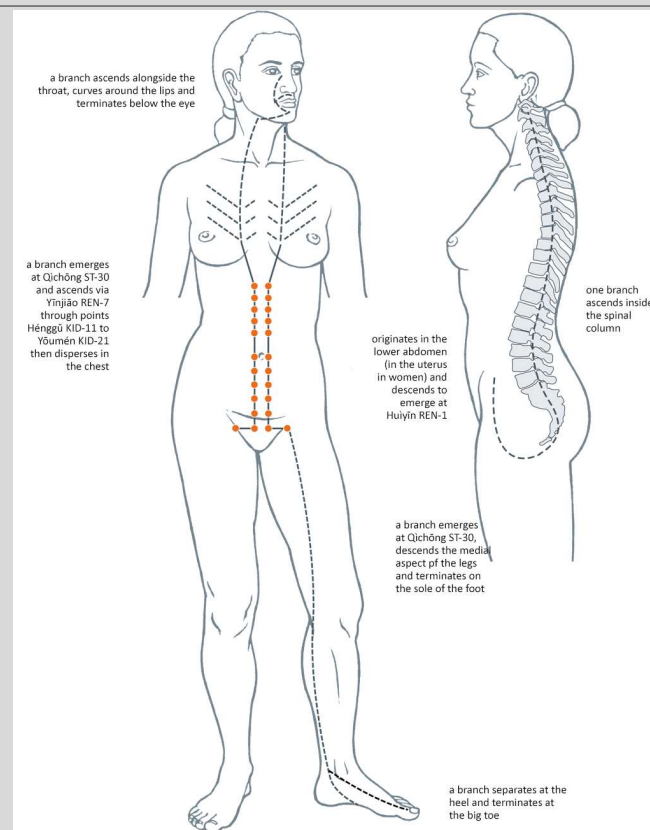

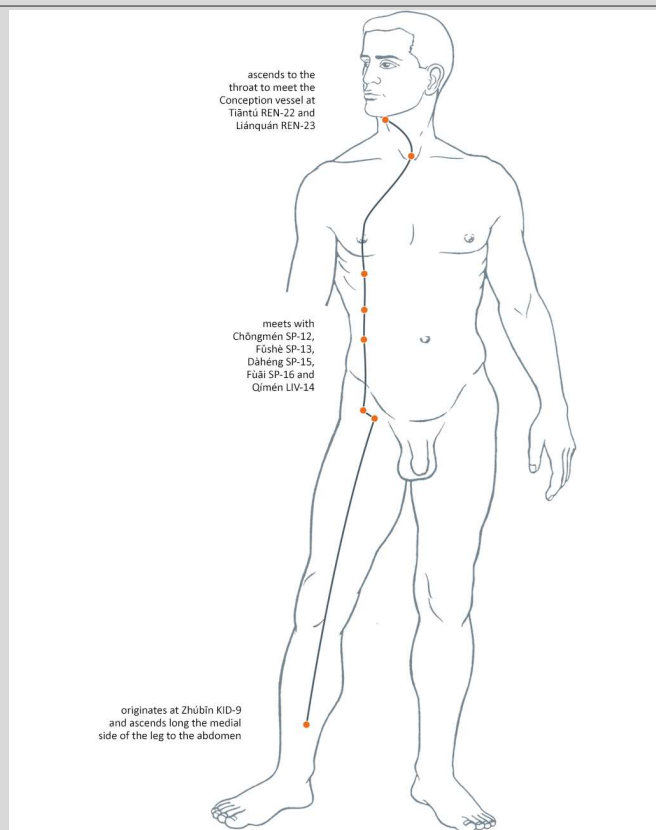

Confluence Points of Extraordinary Meridians

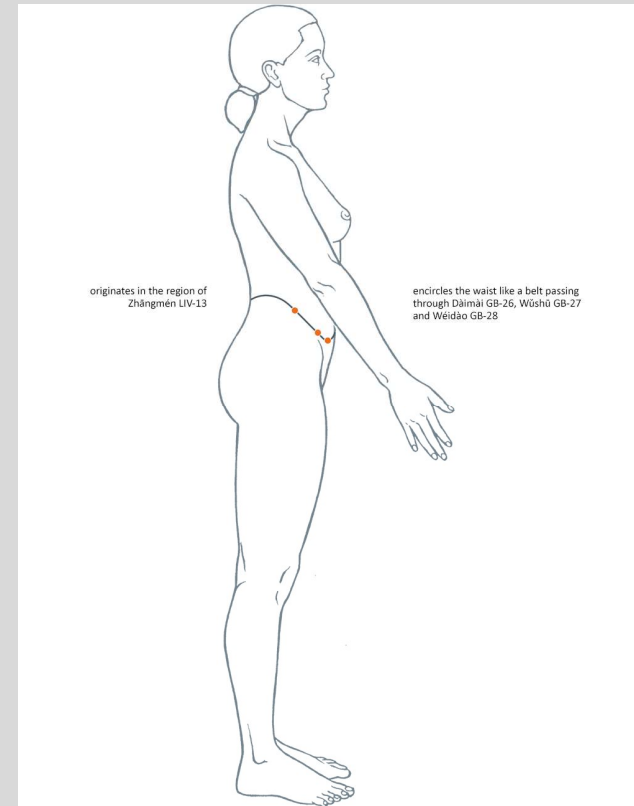

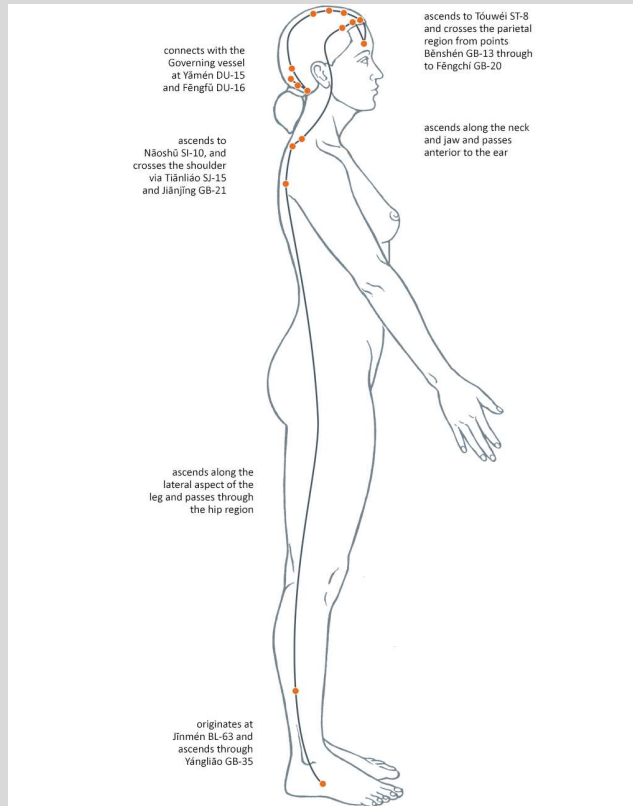

- The confluent point can be used to activate/influence the extraordinary vessels they open or influence a unique area specific to the point.
- Can be used singly or combined in pairs to treat diseases associated with the meridians and areas of influence

Confluence Points of Extraordinary Meridians

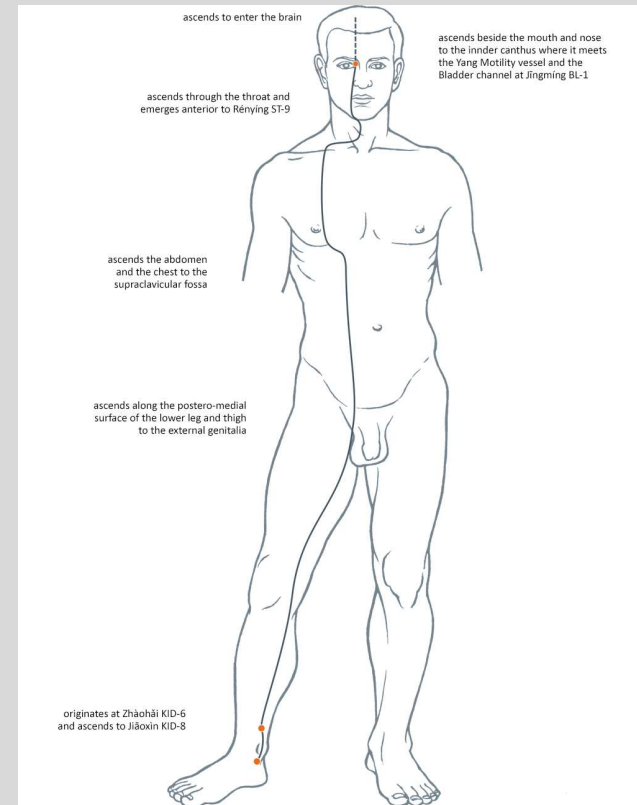

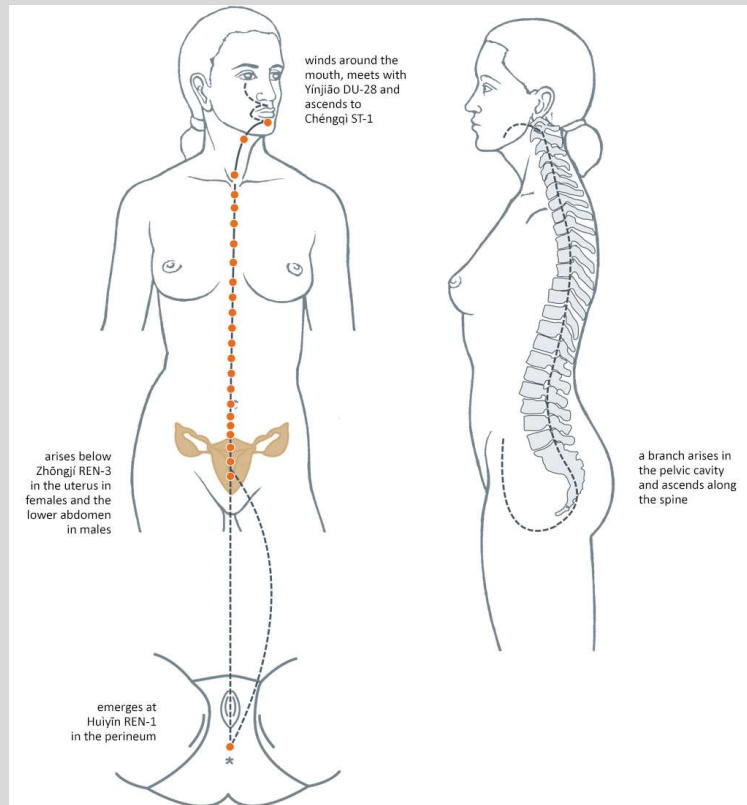

Confluence Point	Extraordinary Vessels	Affected Regions
P6	Yin Wei	Chest / Heart
SP 4	Chong	Stomach and Abdomen
SJ 5	Yang Wei	Costal, lateral neck, side of head/shoulder
GB 41	Dai	Sides of the body including hips, hernia
LU 7	Ren	Lungs, throat, diaphragm, urination
KID 6	Yin Qiao	Inside of the legs, inner canthus, chronic throat
SI 3	Du	Spine (including head/neck), scapula,
UB 62	Yang Qiao	Back of legs, back, neck, Outer canthus

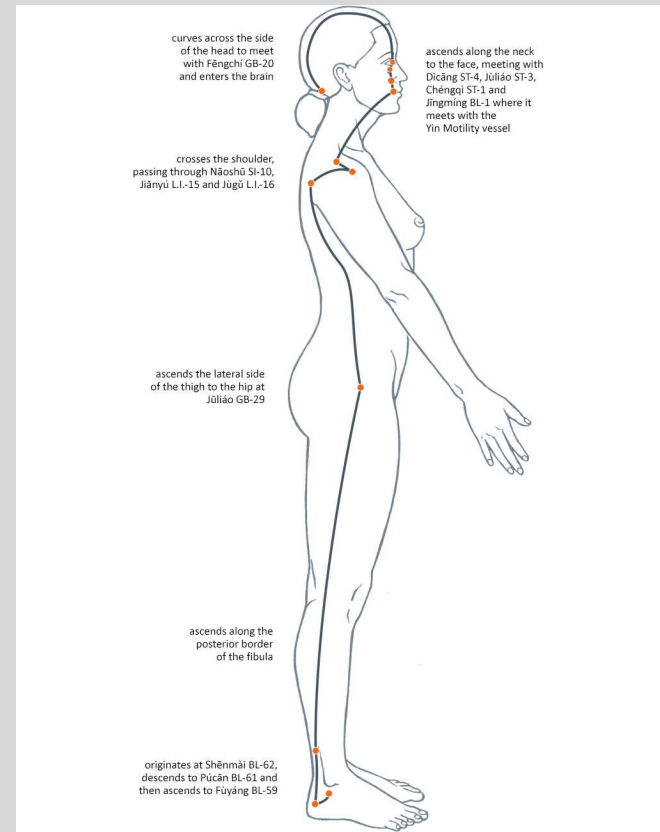

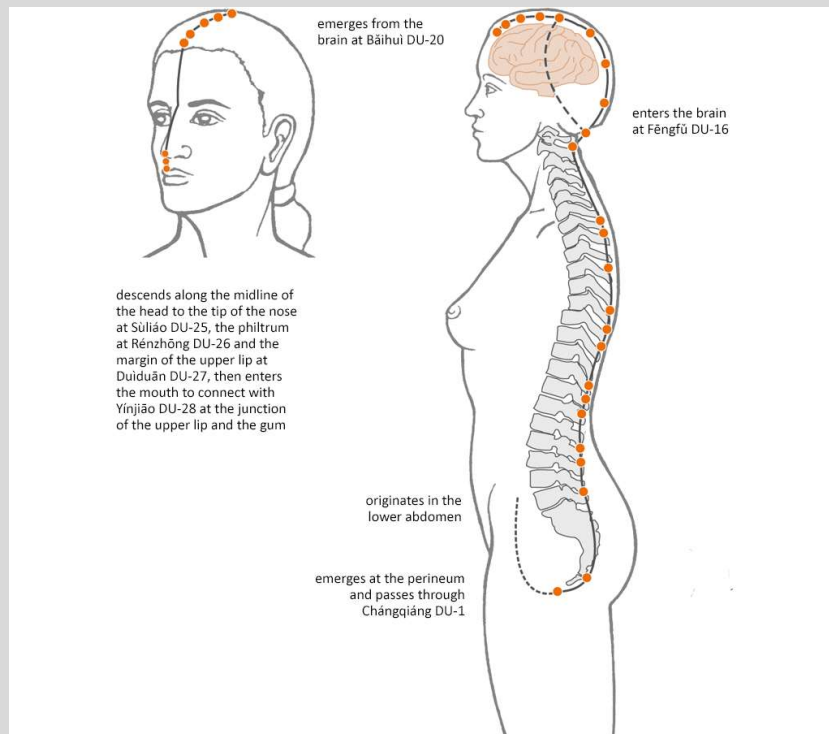

Confluence Point	Extraordinary Vessels	Affected Regions
P6	Yin Wei	Chest / Heart
SP 4	Chong	Stomach and Abdomen

Confluence Point	Extraordinary Vessels	Affected Regions
SJ 5	Yang Wei	Costal, lateral neck, side of head/shoulder
GB 41	Dai	Sides of the body including hips, hernia

Confluence Point	Extraordinary Vessels	Affected Regions
LU 7	Ren	Lungs, throat, diaphragm, urination
KID 6	Yin Qiao	Inside of the legs, inner canthus, chronic throat

Confluence Point	Extraordinary Vessels	Affected Regions
SI 3	Du	Spine (including head/neck), scapula,
UB 62	Yang Qiao	Back of legs, back, Scapula, neck

Let's try some examples of Common Combinations

- Insomnia
- Day-time Somnolence
- Back Pain along spine or paraspinal muscles
- Hip Pain

Common Combinations

- Insomnia
 - Reinforce KID 6, Reduce UB 62 (Balancing Yin Qiao and Yang Qiao)
- Day-time Somnolence
 - Reduce KID 6, Reinforce UB 62
 - Yin Qiao dominates quietness, Yang Qiao dominates activity (Circadian Rhythm)
 - Try massaging UB 1 to help wake up... crossing point of Yin and Yang Qiao
- Back Pain along spine or bladder channel
 - SI3, UB62
- Hip Pain:
 - SJ5, GB41
- What other points might you pick for each case to make a more complete treatment?

Extraordinary Meridians – Ion Pumping Cords

(Do not need to know, just for introduction to ion pumping cords)

- Used in ion-pumping cord treatments and Manaka style acupuncture

Infinity Treatment to balance excess and deficient – cross body

- If T3 area is tender, (L) LU 7 red to (R) KID 6 black, (R) SI 3 black-to (L) UB 62 red
- If T4-5 area is tender, (L) P6 red to (R) SP 4 black, (R) SJ 5 black to (L) GB 41 red

Manaka Whiplash Treatment – side to side

- Bilateral, 4 cords, opens all Yang channels
- UB 62 (black) to SI 3 (red), SJ 5 (black) to GB 41 (red)